Cheese: Try some Martin's Eastern very fine. 25c. per pound.

Corn—Paris brand Maine Corn the best there is, 15c, 2 for 25c.

Peas—Del Monte, sweet and tender put up in sanitary cans, 15c.

Tomatoes—The Berryessa Brand is a very good substitute for fresh ones, 10c. per can.

FARMERS UNION BRANCH

We wish to announce that we have just added another sanitary feature to our dairy equipment in the way of a Hinman Milking Machine. In milking with this machine the milk is not exposed to the stable air at all nor is it possible for any foreign matter from the cow's udder to fall into the milk, thus producing milk with a very low bacterial count.

We cordially invite inspection of our dairy and method of handling our milk at any and all times.

Campbell Wins Again in Big Debate

Local Teams Score Lead of 32 Points Over Opponents in Triangular Contest

The Campbell High School debating teams covered themselves with glory and fame Friday evening by defeating the Palo Alto and Mountain View High School teams.

The question was: "Resolved, That the constitution of the United States should be amended to provide for woman suffrage."

Edward Vandergon and Alice Toll affirmative, Courtland Watson, alternate, met the Palo Alto negative team, W. Brewer and L. Hodges, at the High School auditorium. Our team did its part so well that the unanimous decision of the three judges from University of California was given them with a lead of 17 points over their opponents. After the debate a "jolly-up feed" was enjoyed, the committee, Dorothy Ainsley, Virginia Isham and Frank Mendel, having prepared the banquet.

Our negative team, Dorothy Feathers and Leslie La Montagne, Delpha Wiesendanger, alternate, went to Mountain View where they defeated the affirmative team by a majority vote with a lead of 15 points. Senator Jones, Rev. Falconer and Prof. A. M. Kline acted as judges. Miss Weaver accompanied the team. With the combined score of the two teams, 32, this gives our school the best record in five years.

Monday morning the students held a jubilee rally at the high school auditorium celebrating the victory. Each member of the teams was presented with a uniquely designed debating fob.

Campbell Improvement Club Meeting

Co-operation Is the Slogan for this Year's Work

To the Citizens of Campbell and Vicinity.

In entering upon another year's activities, the Improvement Club extends a special invitation to the people of Campbell and vicinity to meet with them, enroll your names, participate in the discussions and plans for a prosperous year for our town.

The purpose of the Improvement Club is set forth in Sec. 2 of Art. 1. of By-Laws, viz: "The purpose for which the Club is formed is to promote the best interests of Campbell and vicinity and encourage every movement that will enhance its attractiveness as a home centre." Come and give us the benefit of your ideas in discussing the problems that come before our meetings. The Club should have at least two hundred members from which plans and energy might be drawn to place our town in the foremost ranks of up-to-date places.

Civic pride should induce each citizen to lend assistance in planning and putting into operation methods for the betterment of our town.

We need your co-operation. Do not stand back and offer criticism on what has been done, what is being done or what has not been done.

Help us to shape plans along practical lines and we assure you much good can be accomplished for this place. Let us be up to date in method, full of optimism and determination to succeed. Our ambitions should be keen to catch ideas and put into practice developed plans.

Be on hand Friday night, Jan. 21st., at 7:30 at the Library room on South 1st St., enroll your names as members of the Campbell Improvement Club and share in our duties and the pleasures of 1916. The membership fee is 25 cents per year, which is used mainly in the purchase of stationery and incidentals.

Local Officers Installed

Roosevelt Local held its annual installation of officers at the home of H. B. Fairfield on Meridian avenue Tuesday evening at the special invitation of Mr. Fairfield.

The work was conducted by D. M. Utter, state president, of the Farmers Educational and Co-operative Union, assisted by F. J. Millard, state secretary-treasurer, the following officers being installed:

L. Woodard, president; J. W. Pugh, vice-president; B. F. Davison, secretary-treasurer; P. W. Keith, conductor; Mrs. Belle Righter, chaplain; G. Isbel, doorkeeper; Executive committee, F. M. Righter, Dr. Belnap and P. W. Keith.

Mr. Millard gave an interesting account of the progress of the F. E. & C. U. during the past year showing how the organization is growing in strength and usefulness thruout the United States.

After the business meeting, Mrs. Fairfield served the company with dainty refreshments.

James Swane

James Swane passed away at the hospital, Monday, as a result of another stroke of paralysis. Mr. Swane has been suffering from partial paralysis for several years and of late has been growing weaker.

He is survived by his wife, Frances, and little son, Elwood. He was a native of Missouri, aged 44 years.

The funeral services were held from the James Fablinger home on North Central avenue, Wednesday afternoon, the Rev. G. E. Atkinson, officiating. Interment at Saratoga cemetery.

Born: To Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Abbott, a son, Wednesday, Jan. 19. Doctor is so busy dancing about for joy that one need not be surprised if he does pull the wrong tooth occasionally.

We wish to correct a statement made in last issue. The pretty Yeomen couch cover presented to the local homestead was the special gift of Special Organizer Carl Anderson, to whom the thanks of the members are extended.

Mr. and Mrs. William Donaldson returned Friday from Esparto, where they have been visiting their son, W. H. Mr. Donaldson tells of some interesting facts concerning the rice culture which is one of the coming crops of the Sacramento valley. One rancher made about $32,000 on a 330 acre ranch in rice alone and many of the growers expect to raise rice next season. The water company will furnish water for over 10,000 acres of rice in that vicinity this year.

Birthday Social

Another very pleasant Birthday Social was held Friday evening. All of the numbers of the program were heartily encored. It consisted of solos by John Duncan, Jr., Miss Gladys Lowry and Mr. Barron, and readings by Mrs. Whitman, Mrs. Sutter and Mr. Barron.

J. F. Duncan presided and expressed the felicitations of the December people to those born in January.

For the last number the January guests pinned on the donkey's tails.

The centerpiece on the dining-room table was a doll dressed to represent "Father Time," while pop corn "snowballs" were at each place, with miniature scythes.

The button hole favors were violets and ferns.

Salad, sandwiches and coffee were served, with birthday cakes for the honor guests.

In connection with the December social, we find that mention of one of the most delightful and highly appreciated numbers of the program, was omitted, the violin solos given by Robert Scholz, accompanied by Miss Merna Sawyer, repetitions of which are hoped for in the future.

Found Dead in Bed

Mrs. Clara A. Laine, of 20 Dillon avenue was found dead in her bed Saturday noon, when E. G. Lanz entered the house with some neighbors to find the reason for her non-appearance when an attempt was made to arouse her. Coroner Kell held an inquest Monday and the cause of death was pronounced as fatty degeneration of the heart.

She is survived by a sister whose name or whereabouts are unknown. Her maiden name was Richards.

She owned the house where she lived and is supposed to have left about $6000 in banks.

Grape Growers Said to Be Interplanting in Their Vineyards

In accordance with the report of a number of large nurseries and the amount of young trees for planting that have been shipped into Lodi to supply the trade, it is estimated that the demand for fruit trees will be far greater this year than it has been in the past five years. During the past four or five years it is estimated 100,000 trees have been set out each year in the Lodi section.

When The Headaches

Are Glasses Necessary?

It is a conceded fact that from 60 per cent to 75 per cent of all headaches are caused directly or indirectly from eye defects which place too much work or strain on the delicate nerves and muscles of the eyes. Headache is one of Nature's signals notifying us of its need of assistance. The suffering from headaches due to eyestrain is unnecessary. The wearing of CORRECTLY fitted glasses will give entire and permanent relief in almost every case. If you are subject to headache call at Dr. Merrill's office Monday, Jan. 31 and let me examine your eyes and advise you as to whether or not they are the cause of your trouble.

PREVENTION OF FIRES

SIMPLE RULES WORTH KEEPING IN THE MEMORY.

Safeguarding One's Habitation Is Infinitely Better Than Making Repairs After the Catastrophe Is a Matter of Record.

One of the first rules for fire prevention in the home is, "Do not allow children to play with matches." You should organize your home on the same plan as that of a factory. For instance, the man of the house should have charge of the power and maintenance department, and occasionally should inspect his home from the cellar to the garret, with the idea of fire prevention in mind.

Don't throw ashes from cigars, cigarettes and pipes down the air shafts or registers. No one should throw burned or burning matches and tobacco on the floor.

One can easily start a fire when trying to find something in a dark closet, bedroom or cellar, using matches or candles to light the way.

How many times have we seen one use naphtha, benzine or kerosene in stoves and furnaces in an endeavor to light or quicken fires? An explosion may result in death.

Don't turn the oven burner of your gas stove too low. It might go out and the escaping gas cause an explosion when the lighted burner above ignites it.

It is dangerous to use gasoline or benzine to clean clothing near an open flame, light or fire.

Do not fill lamps with oil while the lamp is lighted, or when within fifteen feet of a lighted fire.

Hot ashes against boards, in barrels, etc., may easily start a fire.

Don't accumulate trash in cellars or any other place.

Use safety matches in the house—they are more economical.

Keep combustibles, such as oils, paints, grease or fats, etc., outside in a metal box or can if possible.

Clean the chimney flue at least once a year.

Keep neckties, lace curtains, etc., away from gas jets.

One pint of gasoline, naphtha or benzine makes 200 feet of explosive vapor.

Don't look for a gas leak with a lighted candle or match. You might suddenly find it—to your sorrow.

Locate the nearest fire-alarm box to your home. If you have a telephone ask central for fire headquarters, and give them the exact address and location of the fire.

Investigate your home now—a stitch in time saves nine.

Modest Hero.

At an English county station a little child, owing to the rush of a crowd of trippers, was pushed over in front of an outgoing train. Quick as a flash a workingman jumped on to the track, threw the child on to the platform and scrambled up himself but scarcely quick enough, as the engine in passing rolled him over on the platform.

Several people hastened to his succor, but he rose uninjured, and with a face expressive of extreme concern drew out of his pocket a colored handkerchief containing his day's victuals, which he cursorily examined, and then ruefully exclaimed: "Confound it! Just my luck!"

"What is the matter?"

"Why, I've broken two eggs and a rhubarb tart, and it's all mixed up with my tea and sugar."

Not Always What They Seem.

"Tony," said a British officer to his soldier-servant, "something tells me that I shall never come back alive I seem to have a presentiment that way."

"Then take no heed of it, sir," responded the servant. "Them presentiments is frauds. A cousin of mine had one once, and it treated him very badly. It was just like the one that's troublin' you now, sir. He felt sure that he'd be killed out in Egypt, so he divided his savings between his sweetheart and his bosom chum, and went out to be shot. But never a scratch did he get."

"And what happened when he returned home? Did they give him back his money?"

"Not a farden, sir. They'd been and got married while he was away, and they'd set up housekeeping with the money."

Soldiers' Sterilizers.

Our soldiers at the front are provided with a powder which, thrown into water, instantly sterilizes the microbes in it and also gives a pleasant flavor. The men carry this powder in a pocket medicine case, which contains as well cubes for turtle soup, remedies in the form of gelatin squares, and other necessaries for those who have to "fend" for themselves for days together.—London Tit-Bits.

Judging by the Cover.

"What a beautiful magazine cover!" said the girl.

"Is that a magazine?" rejoined her father. "I was just going to ask you to play it on the piano. It's getting so I can't tell a magazine from the latest ragtime composition."

Rural Serbia

THE kingdom of Serbia is one of the smallest in Europe, and has been very slow in development. Greater progress, however, has been made during the last ten years than for centuries before. The area of the country is 33,891 square miles, the population being over four and a half millions, mostly professing the Greek orthodox faith. The inhabitants are largely devoted to agricultural pursuits and, as a consequence, there are very numerous small farms in existence which belong to the farmers, and by the law of primogeniture descend from father to son. Although there are two large towns, Belgrade and Nish, most of the population is rural, and 85 per cent, at least, are engaged in agriculture; but it is of a primitive kind, as may be witnessed any day on the small farms referred to where the wooden plow used in the days of Xenophon may be seen in daily use.

This primitive state of agriculture is largely due to the absence of any organization or systematic agricultural education. Modern methods have only been introduced in a tentative way during the last ten years, but there are no agricultural colleges yet in existence, although there are a number of model farms which are subsidized by the state, and in which technical instruction in dairying, fruit farming, silk cultivation, wine growing and similar subjects is given. Tobacco is produced to some extent, but is not very much exported, and indeed the total exports from the country are comparatively small, the largest amount being sent to Austria-Hungary.

The principal crop raised is maize, and very large quantities of this cereal are consumed in the country in the manufacture of maize bread and many other preparations in which ground maize forms the basis.

ON THE ROAD FROM USKUB TO KUSTENDIL.

The flesh consumed is principally pork, although mutton, goat and beef enter to some extent into the daily dietary, more especially in the towns. Pork, however, in the fresh and in the cured state, is used everywhere, and every farmer, small or large, is a grower of pigs, the type preferred being the Mangalicza breed, which has the characteristic of producing deep layers of fat along the back, which is cut into long strips, slightly salted and used in the place of butter. So important is the pork-curing industry considered in Serbia that the government subsidizes the curing establishments and in several ways gives concessions to the curers of pig meat. The salt required in the business is subject to a rebate of 50 per cent of its value, as it is used for industrial purposes, there being a state monopoly of salt in the country.

Sheep Rank Next to Pigs.

Some of the customs in connection with agriculture are very interesting, among them being the universal co-operation of the farmers in annually sending their sheep to the hills. The sheep industry ranks next to that of pigs, and wool is produced in considerable quantity. Serbian mutton is noted also in eastern countries, and before the war was much in demand in Constantinople.

But the principal use of the sheep is to produce milk, from which a great variety of cheeses is made. The farmers who are the owners of the sheep unite together to employ one or more shepherds, who take charge of their flocks and milk them while they are on the hills. The shepherds are also responsible for making the cheese out of the milk, and pay themselves for their trouble by taking a certain percentage of the produce, the remainder being divided among the farmers, according to the number of sheep they possess.

The cheese produced is somewhat bitter in taste and not unlike ewe milk cheese, which at one time was produced so largely in the south of Scotland.

The national customs of rural Serbia are very quaint. The marriage ceremonies, for example, are of the most elaborate character; the bride is selected by the parents of the bridegroom, and this is looked upon as being quite in the natural order of human affairs; but all the ceremonies in connection with marriage are of the most elaborate and, for that matter, costly character.

Christmas ceremonies also are very elaborate and are reminiscent of Pagan rites. One of the customs is to cut down a tree in the forest, and in falling it must lie to the east. In every household such a tree is cut into three portions, and is looked upon as being sacred and not to be touched. There is much throwing of wheat, which has a certain symbolic significance, and the log is then placed on the fire, while, at the same time, the inevitable pig is roasted for a feast. The ceremonies continue during Christmas day, which is given up to feasting, mingled with religious exhortations, and only come to an end when the night is far advanced.

People Are Superstitious.

As a nation the Serbians are extremely superstitious, and this feature runs through the whole of their national customs, whether it is in the laying out of a house or in the preparation for death; but the Serbian farmer does not fear death, as he usually prepares the boards for his own coffin and keeps them in readiness in his house.

In the country villages it is the custom to give a kind of feast five times in the year for the souls of departed heads of households, and food and drink, including wine, are placed on the graves and afterwards given to the poor. It is a high holiday for the beggars, and they are not slow to take advantage of the occasion.

In the country districts there is very little use for money, as the farms, being small, are utilized for the production of food for the winter, and this consisting as it does, largely of wine, brandy produced from plums, sauerkraut, potatoes, onions and the pods of capsicum, known in Serbia as "paprika," there is little need to sell the produce in order to buy other commodities. All these and others are stored in the cellars, but in the kitchens of the one-storied houses, which are, the general rule, bacon, hams and salted meat are hung up to dry and to mature.

Although the houses in the country are not very large, there is still provision made for the guest, who may be a perfect stranger but who is welcome to the hospitality which is a tradition with Serbians in the same way as it used to exist in the Scottish Highlands. The industries of Serbia are small, as compared with agriculture, and this unfortunately is the result of a settled policy, which until recent years was enforced by the governing classes. When Serbia comes to her own again after the present war, much in the national life will be changed; the old order of things will have passed away and the development of other industries besides those associated with agriculture is certain to take place.

Drill Amenities.

Mayor John Purroy Mitchel said at a dinner in New York:

"The memories of camp life are a very pleasant thing to any soldier. Even the little vivacities of camp life seem in the retrospect pleasant enough.

"Thus I often laugh about a banker who was being drilled daily one day at Plattsburg by a broker-sergeant.

"'What'll you give me,' said the broker-sergeant, an old Yale end, 'if I take that hump off your back?'

"'I'll give you,' the banker answered with a tart laugh, 'something to make your hair grow, sarge.'"

Pirot Famous for Carpets.

Pirot is the center of an important Serbian industry. Pirot carpets, blue and red, are to be found in every Serbian home, and have gained fame beyond the Balkans. They nearly all are made in private houses, entirely by hand, often without even a shuttle, the workers using no patterns, but artistic instinct producing harmonious results. The art has been acquired, no doubt, from the Turks, who learned it from the Persians, but Pirot carpets have qualities all their own. Colors and materials are so strong that it is almost impossible to wear them out.

South Africa's Demand for Films.

South Africa imports 60,000 feet of moving picture films weekly.

DISEASES OF TURKEY

All Domestic Poultry Are Susceptible to Blackhead.

Ailment Which Has All But Annihilated Turkey-Raising Industry In New England, Has Spread to Every State in Union.

It was formerly believed that blackhead occurred only in the turkey. Continued observation soon made it clear, however, that fowls also might have the disease, and it is now a well established fact that not only fowl, but practically all domestic poultry are susceptible; and, although they are much more resistant than turkeys, they frequently die of blackhead. The same organism has been found in guinea fowl, ducks, pheasants, quail, grouse, pigeons and sparrows. But the chief danger from such general occurrence of the disease in a mild form lies in the fact that where there are domestic poultry the grounds are necessarily contaminated with the causative organism, and thus rendered unsuitable for raising turkeys. For this reason it is never safe to allow turkeys and other poultry to use the same yards. The occurrence of the disease in wild birds such as the quail, grouse and in several varieties of sparrows, adds to the varied possibilities for infection.

As a general things, the poultryman will do better to study methods of prevention than to waste his money on so-called "remedies" and "cures" for blackhead. Treatment should be, in the main, limited to such birds as are of special value, and the poultryman should devote his attention to securing conditions which are calculated to prevent the disease in his flocks as a whole.

Regarding such preventive measures the following, though simple, may be recommended: (1) Protect the yards and flocks which may have the good fortune to be uninfected with blackhead by a careful examination of all new stock, whether turkeys, fowls, geese or other domestic birds. (2) Keep the turkeys on grounds which are as fresh as can be obtained. Change the range at least every year or two, and, above all, keep them isolated from fowl and other poultry. (3) Keep every turkey in the flock under frequent observation in order to separate, and at once isolate, any bird which gives evidence of the disease. To facilitate such observations it is of the greatest help to legband every bird, and to record its weight from time to time. This procedure may be looked upon by the average poultryman as difficult and impracticable. (4) If it is known that blackhead is present in any of the poultry, the yards should be kept as free as possible from English sparrows, and the poultry houses and grain bins from rats and mice, since it has been shown that these rodents carry the parasite. (5) If it is desired to fatten birds for market, begin to increase the rations gradually. Never attempt to fatten birds which, in successive weighings, show a loss of weight. Overfeeding does not cause blackhead, but it does frequently cause the sudden death of birds in which blackhead is present. (6) When birds have died of blackhead their bodies should be promptly burned or buried in order to prevent the dissemination of the coccidia, either through the ravages of rats or skunks or by leaving the dead birds to decay about the premises.

Regarding therapeutic measures, the following may have some advantages if given early in acute cases of blackhead: (1) Isolate the sick bird from the flock and place it in a dry, well ventilated location, free from colds and drafts. (2) Feed sparingly on soft, light, easily assimilable food, with little grain, especially corn.

HIGHEST TEST FOR THE COW

This Condition Often Brought About by High Feeding During Resting Period of Animal.

A cow very often tests her highest a few days after calving, unless it be just before she goes dry.

The high test is often brought about through high feeding during her resting period.

After a short time she resumes what may be termed her normal test and will not show a great deal of difference from month to month in the fat content of her milk until well toward the close of her lactation, when the test increases and often becomes very high just before she quits giving milk.

Give Horse Some Warning.

Many horses instinctively haul off and kick when they are surprised. Say "Whoa," whenever you go up to the side of a horse. May save you a broken leg, or perhaps your life.

LARGE HORSES FOR PLOWING

Best Results Obtained by Working Animals Three Abreast—Have Proper Fitting Collars.

Horses should not be overworked. Heavy plowing and harrowing should be done with three horses abreast. It is a very effective team. When the team commences to flag from overwork, especially when the weather is hot, rest at once, wash out the mouth of each horse and give a little water. A little meal in the water is a capital thing for horses at noon, and right when they come home tired—one pint in two gallons of water is about the right quantity.

See that the collars fit properly. A collar that will fit one horse may not fit another. Each horse should have his own collar. Have the collars scraped off before they are put on in the morning. Let down the check reins when at work; it is a good plan to take off the check reins entirely, as the horse cannot do his best when his head is checked up. He should have free use of his head.

GOOD LIVE STOCK PAYS

It makes farming permanent.
It returns highest price for farm crops.
It furnishes market for waste feeds.
It reduces bulk of marketable crops.
It distributes labor throughout the year.
It means cleaner farms.
It makes income steady.
It helps to keep boys on the farm.
It makes farm life pleasanter.

ADVANTAGES OF SINGLE DISK

Has Better Penetration and Little Greater Draft Than the Double Disk—Also Works Soil.

It is generally understood that the single disk grain drill has better penetration and a little greater draft than the double disk drill. The single disk has an advantage where trash must be encountered and where difficulty is experienced in securing sufficient penetration. The single disk also works the soil to some degree, giving a pulverizing action during the seeding process. It is the more simple of the two types of disk openers, the double disk having two bearings instead of one to keep in repair.

It is claimed that the double disk opener can be used in muddy or very sticky soil where the single disk fails, and this statement seems particularly true with those double disks which drop or throw the seed ahead of the disk bearing where it is carried down to bottom of the furrow by the down travel of the front half of the disk blades. Seeding can often be accomplished by such design and the blades kept fairly clean in sticky soil. If many low wet spots must be encountered these features of the double disk must be taken into consideration.

The double disk drill will give good satisfaction in well prepared ground which is free from lumps, stones and trash, if care is taken to keep the blades in good condition; but simplicity and penetrating ability are features of the single disk which make it the most popular among the middle western farmers.

FEED VALUE OF BUTTERMILK

Where Hogs Are Bringing Seven Cents Per Pound It Is Worth About 42 Cents Per 100 Pounds.

Buttermilk is generally credited with having the same feeding value as skim milk unless considerable water has been added.

One rule for finding the value of 100 pounds of skim milk or buttermilk when fed with corn or barley is to multiply the market price of hogs per pound by six. Then if hogs are bringing seven cents per pound the value of the buttermilk is about 42 cents per 100 pounds.

Another rule proposed many years ago is that 100 pounds of skim milk or buttermilk, when fed with corn or barley, is worth one-half the market price of corn per bushel.

Rations With Variety.

A ration composed of numerous well-chosen feeds is always superior to a ration having only two or three different feeds. Rations having much variety are ordinarily more appetizing than those that do not, so are of particular value in restoring a lost appetite and the accompanying decreased milk flow.

Fortunate Silo Owner.

The silo owner does not tremble when pasture begins to dry up.

TIME'S RAPID FLIGHT

FASHION'S CHANGES FOLLOW IN QUICK SUCCESSION.

Ample Evidence That We Are All of Us Very Transitory and of Little Real Importance in the World.

The pictures of women's fashions of twenty years ago look as quaint to us today as the fashions of a like period of time prior thereto probably looked a score of years ago, and as odd and queer as the fashions of a similar length of time before that doubtless seemed to the observer of two-score years ago, and so on. At almost any date the modes of a decade or two previous appear more or less ridiculous, and this was probably so all the way down the corridors of time clear to Eve, when, there being no fashions to look back to, there was, of course, nothing queer about them.

In the days of tight skirts we looked back with amusement to the days of hoops and crinoline. When bangs were in vogue we smiled at the recollection of the chignon and waterfall, just as the days of the straight front found the recollection of the Grecian bend highly diverting. At any date, from the present back to the time of Godey's Ladies' Book, one could pick up a fashion publication of a few years before and enjoy a hearty laugh.

And so it will doubtless ever be; the correct thing of yesteryear is the laughing-stock of today, and the modes of the present will be either humorous or pathetic, according to how you look at them, a few years hence.

And it is not alone in the matter of woman's garments that this rule holds good. The cabinet organ, once supposed to be a musical instrument; the Populists, thirty years ago suspected of being a political party; the silver-tongued statesmen of yore, with their tremendous pomposity and appalling emptiness; "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and "Ten Nights in a Barroom," once venerated as vehicles carrying messages of vital import; all are now the subjects of jests by the light-minded.

The elocutionist, the dodo, the torchlight parade, the blue-grass cure, spirit-rappings, the original Swiss Bell Ringers, madstones, croquet and very many more once held the center of the stage, but having served well or ill their predestined purposes, are gone forever. The world does move!—Judge.

Hat Duels Are Bloodless.

Women like to wear large hats—there is a certain air to them—but ever since they became fashionable they have been causing several hundred feminine encounters. These hat duels always start the same way. Two women, each with big white hats, were seated in a subway train recently. Suddenly the stiff, saw-like edge of one hat swept the other woman's back hair. The one who had been "wounded" turned and glared at the offender, and in so doing inadvertently, of course, sawed the offender's neck with her own hat. "I don't care; she needn't think she owns this car," one exclaimed aloud to her companion. "She can't be a lady or she wouldn't act that way," the other remarked scornfully. The average man who overhears and oversees one of these hat duels is likely to be unduly alarmed while it lasts, and wonder why there is no bloodshed.—New York Times.

Giant of Stars.

Canopus, the giant of the stellar system, is, according to a recent calculation of W. F. A. Ellison, 49,000 times as bright as the sun. It is 134 times as large as the sun in diameter, 18,000 times in surface and 2,420,000 times in volume. Its distance from us, according to the same estimate, is 489 light years. Suppose, says Mr. Ellison, that instead of being at this enormous distance it were placed in the center of the solar system, in lieu of the sun. It would then occupy eighty-five hundredths of the space lying within the orbit of Venus, and as seen from the earth would subtend an angle of about 70 degrees of arc. Thus, when its lower limb was on our horizon, its upper would be within 20 degrees of the zenith. Needless to say, no life could exist on earth with such a neighbor.

Straying From the Subject.

"The business of motherhood—" began the little old lady in the back seat.

The president of the woman's club rapped loudly for order.

"Delegates," said she, "will give their attention to the business of the club."

Very Ancient Warrior.

Impostor—Could you help an old soldier, sir, what lost his leg in the battle of Gettysburg?

Gentleman—But you told me last week you lost your arm there.

Impostor—No, sir; me arm I lost in the battle of Bunker Hill.

Christian Names Taxed.

Under the new Dutch budget, at the registration of a newly born baby all Christian names, with the exception of one, are to be taxed. Holders of foreign stocks are also heavily taxed.

"Oh, no. Spaniels do not fight."

CALOMEL MAKES YOU SICK, UGH!

"Dodson's Liver Tone" better than calomel and can not salivate.

Calomel loses you a day! You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

When you feel bilious, sluggish, constipated and all knocked out and believe you need a dose of dangerous calomel just remember that your druggist sells for 50 cents a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is entirely vegetable and pleasant to take and is a perfect substitute for calomel. It is guaranteed to start your liver without stirring you up inside, and can not salivate.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and doesn't gripe.—Adv.

Knife the Best Weapon.

"Today the defense stands pat on earthworks, wire and machine guns. The attack has tried gas, petrol, bayonets, siege artillery, field artillery, grenades and mines, and has come out, generally speaking, second best. Trench mortars have not developed the requisite accuracy nor the requisite destructive power. High explosive shells in sufficient quantities have accomplished the best offensive work, and the infantry is depending more and more on a short, heavy knife, which is the best for work underground or in the dark. To sum up: Killing the defenders of a position is accomplished by shells fired at least two miles away on the average; and, secondly, by what the French call body-to-body fighting, for which a knife is the best weapon. The training of infantry on the continent will in the future, undoubtedly include the technique of hand-to-hand struggles—for which physical agility and strength must be developed."—New Republic.

The Defective Baby.

At a time when politicians and generals have to decide almost every day whether to purchase a trench or a hill at the cost of so many human lives, the death of a helpless baby has set a whole nation talking. This happens to be a nation which cannot boast that it cares supremely about its babies, for hundreds of thousands of them die every year of preventable causes. They die of tenements which could be ventilated, of milk that could be kept clean, of neglect that could be remedied. They die because their fathers are underpaid, because their mothers are overworked; they are run over on city streets because there are insufficient playgrounds; they are infected by dirt diseases; they are starved. Given a chance in life most of them would become happy and useful. They are refused that chance because public opinion is too indolent, because many landlords and business men are too greedy, because politicians are cowardly and ignorant. Every year hordes of fine human beings are condemned to death because it costs too much to save them. But the refusal to keep alive a deformed idiot has become a moral issue throughout the nation.—From the New Republic.

FINISH IN THE WASTEBASKET

That Receptacle the Last Resting Place of Ideas Which Have Failed to Survive.

The wastebasket is a symbol of oblivion. To it are consigned the failures and the "has-beens," old love letters, appeals that meet with no response, things emptied of their significance by time. It is the grave of dead thoughts. What a mass of human effort and emotion its contents represent! The merest printed circular, flung there with hardly a glance, stands for long hours of eager planning by somebody and the skilled labor of many hands. Men have striven with the utmost of their ability to win your interest—and have failed. The wastebasket records their failure.

Those little ink-inscribed bits of paper that lie submerged in its depths are pieces of human documents; letters of friendship, full of cordiality and harking back to pleasant experiences; family letters, expressing loyal affection and giving word of those at home; letters that once made the heart beat quick. At first a joy, they became an accumulation and are now a riddance.

There is a popular magazine of last January. How utterly flat and stale it seems! The heroes and heroines that stalk, chatter and pose through its pages are now forgotten. The great man eulogized in a glowing article has since fallen into disfavor. The big names flaunted on the cover have a look of mockery. The "most gripping story ever written" has been superseded by a score of others. The "brilliant comedy success" puffed by the dramatic critic has left the boards forever.

In among these "has-beens" are a host of "might-have-beens;" inchoate ideas, jotted down but never consummated; letters that were written but never sent; plans for homes that were never built; dazzling schemes abandoned out of fear that they were visionary. Aspirations, gropings—how they might have changed the world for some of us!

Few things escape you long, old Juggernaut! One after another, they lose their hold and fall into you. And you are always waiting.

Te morituri salutamus!—Judge.

For Galled Horses.

When your horse is galled, apply Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh and you can keep on working. Try it and if your horse is not cured quicker than by any other remedy, the dealer will refund your money. Adv.

Life Struggle of the Trees.

An interesting light is thrown on the longevity of the trees that grow along the timber line of the Rocky mountains by Enos A. Mills in his recently published "Rocky Mountain Wonderland." He says:

A few timber-line trees live a thousand years, but half this is a ripe old age for most of the timber-line veterans. The age of these trees cannot be judged by their size or by their general appearance. There may be centuries of difference in the ages of two arm-in-arm trees of similar size. I examined two trees that were growing within a few yards of each other in the shelter of a crag. One was 14 feet high and 16 inches in diameter, and had 337 annual rings. The other was seven feet high and five inches in diameter, and had lived four hundred and ninety-two years.

One day, by the sunny and sheltered side of a bowlder, I found a tiny seed bearer at an altitude of 11,800 feet. How splendidly unconscious it was of its size and its utterly wild surroundings! This brave pine bore a dainty cone, yet a drinking glass would have completely housed both the tree and its fruit.—Youth's Companion.

Stage Door Johnnies Passing.

All this stuff about the Johnnies being lined up at the stage door of the musical shows waiting for the chorus to appear is buncombe. Take it from a front row girl. She says the chappie at the stage door is a thing of the past and that the only thing in the alley to greet them at 11:30 o'clock is an empty ash barrel. The telephone and movies are responsible. There are no more crush notes and Reggie is not there with his gasoline cart, either. Neither are there any more matinee idols. "It is not so much fun as it used to be," she admits. "Nowadays we make all our dates by telephone, so the old romance is gone. So, too, are the mash notes."—New York Letter to the Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Duck Turned Into Soap.

At the State university museum in Lincoln, Neb., is the body of a duck that has turned largely into soap. This is the first known specimen of the kind. Doctor Walcott explains the phenomenon by saying that the duck was fat and that the water, alkali and hot sun simply made soap of that portion of the duck that was susceptible of being so transformed.

What to Do for Itching Skins

Eczema, ringworm and other itching, burning skin eruptions are so easily made worse by improper treatment, that one has to be very careful. There is one method, however, that you need not hesitate to use, even on a baby's tender skin—that is, the resinol treatment. Resinol is the prescription of a Baltimore doctor. put up in the form of resinol ointment and resinol soap. This proved so remarkably successful, that thousands of other physicians have prescribed it constantly for over twenty years.

Resinol usually stops itching instantly, healing the eruption quickly, unless it is due to some serious internal disorder. Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap can be bought at any druggist's, and are not at all expensive. Write for free sample, Dept. 6-S, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.—Adv.

Sailor's Brave Deed.

For saving his dog, Betty, a Pomeranian, when his ship, the Caucasian, was sunk by a German submarine, the captain is to receive a silver medal from the National Canine Defense league. The facts show that when the crew had taken to the boats the dog fell into the water and started to swim towards the submarine. Captain Robinson swam after it and rescued it just as it reached the submarine. The commander of the submarine said: "I made up my mind to blow up your boats, but now you save the little dog—" Thus 38 lives were saved by the rescue of the dog. The captain swam back with the little animal sitting on his shoulder.

Scientific Station in Spitzbergen.

The German scientific station in Spitzbergen, which was founded in 1911 by Professor Hergesell, and has been constantly in operation, summer and winter, since that time, ceased its valuable activities at the outbreak of the European war. A party of scientific men which had sailed for Spitzbergen to relieve the staff was recalled, and the party at the station also succeeded in getting back to Germany safely with all their instruments and other equipment. This institution has carried on extensive investigations of the upper air with balloons, and was, in fact, founded primarily to study the conditions likely to be encountered by the expedition which Count Zeppelin proposed to take to the North Pole in an airship.

LORD READING TELLS STORY

Former English College Athlete Is Reminded of Fact That Dardanelles Are Very Narrow.

Lord Reading said at a luncheon in New York:

"The allies' loan promises to be as plethoric as my friend Heron-Plume, who recently enlisted.

"Heron-Plume had bowled for Rugby and pulled stroke for Oxford in the dear dead days beyond recall, but he went out of training afterward, and when he appeared at the club in khaki a few months ago he certainly made an imposing figure. Chest 84 inches, you know, but a little low down.

"'Where are you going to fight, Heron-Plume?' I asked, as my huge friend sank puffing into a chair and unfastened a couple of buttons at the —er—breast of his tunic.

"'Dardanelles,' he answered.

"'But, Heron-Plume,' said another man, 'don't you know the Dardanelles are frightfully narrow?'"

No, Not Fallen Pedestrians.

They were out in their Rattler car and had had several breakdowns. As hubby got out his repair kit for the fifth time wife remarked:

"Pity we didn't bring a squirrel along."

"What for—a mascot?"

"No," she replied; "it could run behind and pick up the nuts."

A Premonition.

"I think I'll take out that life insurance. It will come in very handy for my wife at this time."

"Well, insurance is a fine thing, but you're good for forty years yet."

"I don't know. I have a foreboding that the agent is going to talk me to death."

"You can't get something for nothing," said the ready-made philosopher.

"Somebody did," exclaimed Mr. Chuggins. "The automobile I bought day before yesterday wouldn't bring half its price if I sold it today."

"Yes; everybody knows of your strong effort to get it all out."

"I judge this is going to be a problem play."

"What makes you think so?"

"During every pause in the dialogue the hero drinks a highball and lights a fresh cigarette."

Well Paired.

"You and Grump seem to get along pretty well."

"Yes. You see, he never borrows anything but trouble, and that's all I ever have to lend."

Use for Prisoners of War.

Austria has discovered a scientific use for prisoners of war. Doctor Poch, professor of anthropology and ethnology at the University of Vienna, has been granted the sum of $800 by the government to conduct anthropological researches among the captives of Austrian arms. He will measure their skulls, tabulate the color of hair and eyes, collect data as to dialect and otherwise subject these human specimens to the scientific "once-over" many times repeated. The good doctor is said to be wildly enthusiastic over the prospect of so large and varied a collection of human material for his investigation.

Mrs. Cowles Writes To Friends

S. S. Roma,
Monday, Dec. 14.

Dear Everybody,

Almost a week at sea and now at last I am able to keep my balance long enough to attempt this, my first letter.

We have had awful weather. Friday is recorded on the captain's chart as a "hurricane". Twice in my life before I have been in similar storms, but never in anything worse. No North Atlantic for me in winter, ever again.

Friday's storm is indescribable. Great mountains of water rose and fell on both sides of our ship and we were tossed about like a cockle shell. Over and over again it seemed as tho we should really turn turtle and go to the bottom. One man was so cruel as to whisper in my ear "Warratah", the ship in South Africa that actually did turn turtle and disappeared forever. Of course the ocean was majestic. The wind whipped the crest off of each wave and scattered it like a fine white veil over the troubled sea.

But grand as it was, I could not look at it long and I found it best to keep my eyes away from the port hole. I tried to have school with Frederick but his books shot across the room repeatedly and disappeared under the settee. Frederick said he was especially glad to have his arithmetic go! Cups and plates went crashing across the dining saloon and we still have the fiddles on the tables. In our cabin, tooth brushes and combs and what not flew in all directions. Drawers came out of the dresser and shot across the cabin. Doors banged, several cabins were deluged, and in the night a heavy sea flooded the deck below, and mats and chairs went floating about in front of our dining saloon door. Not many slept on Friday night!

Frederick thot it all huge fun as long daylight lasted but when darkness settled down upon the face of that deep and angry sea he began to be terrified. It took a lot of "pretending" on my part to keep up an air of unconcern! How thankful I was when at last he fell asleep literally "rocked in the cradle of the deep". At such a time, on such a sea, and in a freight boat with a young captain who has black bottles by his plate at every meal,—at such a time, how helplessly, hopelessly far away one feels from all their friends, save One.

I was being tossed about in my bunk on Saturday morning, after that horrible night of storm, thinking of the dear ones so utterly beyond reach, when a knock came on our door and a wireless from my brother in Jamaica Plain was handed in! I cannot get over the marvel of it yet. To think that a message from land could come to us so peacefully, when wind and rain, thunder and lightening, hail and fog had all held us in their grip for three days.

This morning we got the war news by wireless, and every one has been asking "Have you seen the morning paper?" However, we don't need war news for excitement here. We are still being tossed about tho this is only what they call "a rough sea". We are almost out of the Gulf Stream and shall be thankful enough to escape it.

The special excitement of the day came this morning. I was almost dressed when the stewardess came rushing into my room and frantically closed the door, shooting off a lot of French which came too fast for me to understand. It did not take me long to understand the smell of smoke, however, and I was soon in the corridor watching a lot of stewards and officers putting out a fire in a linen closet close to our cabin. Partly burned sheets and table cloths were being thrown out and the fire was soon smothered. When I asked the cause of the fire, a young man standing by said, "Only a cigarette." "Only a cigarette", I said, but it might have cost us all our lives."

We are counting the days now when we will reach Madeira and transship to a good English mail boat, where officers are not allowed to drink, and where stewards do not go about their work smoking cigarettes! However we count our mercies. We are glad to have weathered the storm, we are thankful in these war times to have avoided the zone of submarines, we are thankful for clean, uninhabited beds, and we have never before had a deck cabin.

This is a French boat of the Fabre line bound for Marseilles. There are three or four hundred steerage passengers, but only sixteen of us in our part of the boat. Two ladies besides myself, and Frederick is the only child. There are no Germans on board, fortunately, and the various languages spoken at our table make any heated discussions impossible. Another mercy! Our doctor is Portugese, our captain is French and our sixteen passengers are French, English, American and Italian! The stewards are all French. My "la femme de chambre" cannot speak one word of English, nor can our table or bed-room stewards. Of necessity, my college French floating around in the back-ground of my brain has been forced to the front and it has been interesting to see how much of it I could really summon to the rescue. I answer in French one minute, in Zulu the next and beat a retreat back to English. By the time we reach Natal I expect I'll be answering our Zulus in French! Such a confusion of tongues!

IT is rather comforting to note that some officials are not a bit slow in getting the "higher-ups." In enforcing the Washington prohibition laws, one deputy sheriff went up even to the fourth floor and "got" the elite Ranier Club of Seattle on the booze proposition. He even went into some of the big club-men's rooms and found them with the goods. And say, that's just the thing, if we are going to have laws, have officers that will enforce them, then if we dislike the laws repeal them.

POLICE Judge Morris Oppenheim did a good day's work when he sentenced to jail for six months a man convicted of carrying a concealed weapon.

Until there is a law prohibiting the indiscriminate sale of revolvers, the only way to discourage the practice is to give stiff sentences to men who carry "guns". There are exceptional cases when a man is justified in going armed. Then he can secure a permit to carry a weapon. Usually the man who is armed has no good purpose in view and the public should be given the benefit of the doubt and the bearer of potential murder sent where he can not use a weapon.—Call.

Also the man who carries a gun usually has an inflated idea of his own honor and is ever on the look-out for insults as he interprets them. In England the laws against gun carrying are very strictly enforced and a shooting affair is a rare occurrence. Even the police are restricted in the use of guns. A shooting affray is a daily occurrence in this country.

Mrs. Allen Passed Away Suddenly Tues.

The community was shocked by the news of the sudden death of Mrs. Melissa F. Allen, Tuesday, resulting from angina pectoris. Mrs. Allen went to bed in the evening feeling very well. At about eleven she called her sister, Mrs. Shaw, complaining of severe pain in arms and chest.

Dr. Cooper was called but before he arrived she had passed away. She was ill but a short time not more than twenty minutes it is thought. Mr. Allen who had gone to San Francisco was not at home and word was sent him at once. He arrived early in the morning having been met in San Jose by H. W. Higbie with his machine.

Mrs. Allen was a native of Pennsylvania, aged 67 years.

Mrs. Allen was an active member of the Country Woman's Club and the ladies' societies of the Congregational church and she will be greatly missed in these circles.

She is survived by her husband, Edgar Allen, two sisters, Mrs. Lillie F. Shaw and Mrs. May Beardsley, and two brothers, Charles and Harry Fleming of San Jose.

The funeral services were held at Ward parlors in San Jose yesterday, Rev. G. E. Atkinson officiating. Interment at Oak Hill. The pallbearers were H. V. Archibald, C. N. Cooper, J. F. Duncan, H. Griffin, S. G. Nelson and A. B. Townsend.

Hiatt-Hageman

Frederick Lee Hiatt and Miss Glee Elizabeth Hageman were quietly married at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Luella Hageman, on Stevens Creek road, at 7:30 Wednesday evening by the Rev. W. H. Lloyd of the M. E. church, in the presence of members of the two families. Following the ceremony, a wedding supper was served and the young couple prepared to take their departure for a honeymoon of a week or two in some undesignated direction. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Hiatt will reside near Santa Clara at the old Shippey place on the Homestead Road.

A most peculiar feature of the occasion, was the presence of a couple of automobiles on the road in front of the house loaded with young people of the neighborhood waiting patiently during the ceremony and supper. Still more unaccountable was the action of one of these machines in attempting to intercept the parson on his way back to Campbell.

Methodist Church Notes

The Rev. George W. Southwell of the Northwest Iowa conference, accompanied by his wife and several friends from San Jose, was a visitor with us Sunday morning. Mr. Southwell has retired from the active ministry and is seeking a suitable location for a home in California.

In the pastor's absence Wednesday evening, Mr. Thackeray led the prayer meeting, and Mr. Graves presided at the meeting of the Sunday-school board. At the latter meeting, the secretary, Mr. Rodeck, presented a carefully prepared annual report of the Sunday-school. We learn from this report that the following persons were perfect in attendance in 1915: Miss Caldwell, Mrs. Graves, Mr. Bogert, Laura, Margaret, Pauline and Franklin Blaine.

Mr. Lloyd and Mr. Alison attended the county executive meeting of the Epworth League at Gilroy Tuesday evening and persuaded the leaguers that the best place in the world to hold our next rally is Campbell. They will be here, several hundred strong, Feb. 15th. Mark that date on your calendar with red ink.

Our third Methodist Men's Muster will be held in the lecture room Tuesday evening. All our men will want to hear the great debate between First church, San Jose, and Centelia church, on the following momentous question: "Resolved, that a lazy man is more benefit to the church than a stingy man." Bring your glasses and don't miss any of the points. Refreshments (extra refreshing) prepared and served by the men of the committee of five.

E. R. Kennedy will lead the League meeting Sunday. Regular church services morning and evening as usual, conducted by the pastor.

Congregational Church

"The Friendly Church just around the Corner."

At the last mid-week service we took up the fascinating story of the old MSS. of the Bible. To illustrate the study the Pastor had an old MSS. Bible—all hand made—older than printing, from one of the monastaries of Asia Minor, also versions in the Hebrew, Latin, and Greek. Next Wed. 7:30 P. M. we take up "The Romance of the English Bible."

The theme next Sunday morning is "Through Ancient Rome on a Dark Night." Talk to the Boys and Girls on "The Smoke Screen" in modern warfare; this is in the series of talks on Ships and Sailors. Sunday-school and Endeavor as usual. Frank Mendel, leader of the Endeavor. A mighty timely topic at 6:30. At the evening service we will have another of our Stereopticon evenings. There are three sets of slides which are regarded as the three best sets on the coast, we have had two of them; we have the third and last of the series next Sunday night, on "Buddhism." We visit Ceylon, India, Burmah, China, Japan and the "Forbidden Country" of Tibet, seeing the country, people, customs, temples and life of these lands.

A cordial invitation is extended to all who have no other church home to worship with us.

GEO. E. ATKINSON, Pastor.
